DIETEMAN:	It is. [Voices overlap]
HAUSNER	Yeah. [Laughing] That fucking old man I shot in the back. "Ah . . ." Shit all over the place, "ah . . .my mud"
DIETEMAN:	My favorite thing is, you know, when somebody is walking away, you know, it gives me, you know, an extra couple of seconds to aim. I don't have to worry about them looking. I get too paranoid of somebody walking toward me and while I'm trying to aim that they're frickin' gonna see me, or not...not so much see me but see the gun stickin' out wrong or somethin' and be able to give a description. That's why I think I try to wait till the last second when somebody's coming towards me and [U/I]. . . Normally, I don't even get it to my eye I just get it somewhere where it looks like the barrels pointed towards them and bang. [Voices overlap]
HAUSNER:	See how I do it though.

DIETEMAN:	You're fucking quick with it! You just frickin' get up there and get your bead right on them, bam!
HAUSNER:	Bam! [Screams] Quick. [U/I] Hand gun. [Slapping sounds] [U/I].
DIETEMAN:	Speaking of [Brief pause]12 gauge with some kind of thing on the end. That big ol' shell in there. When I'm in the freakin' back seat of the car, window down, already up to the shoulder, already a bead on somebody. Just as soon as it comes right where uh...the separation between the window roller all of a sudden then the barrel protrudes from the window with [U/I], bam!
