

ONCE CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Death of Herbert H. Hayden, Methodist Minister in Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13.—Herbert H. Hayden died at his home here this morning aged 57 years, after a prolonged illness. Mr. Hayden was graduated at Wesleyan University, afterward became a Methodist minister, and was settled in North Madison, Conn.

While there he was accused of the murder of Mary Stannard, which led in 1870 to one of the most famous murder trials in Connecticut. It involved a trip paid for by the State of Prof. Edward S. Dana of Yale to Europe to investigate the properties of arsenic which figured in the trial. The jury disagreed and Mr. Hayden was released on bonds, which were afterward canceled.

---

College Women's Club Lecture.

Leo Mabakoff, who was an officer of the Russian Government in Alaska at the time that Territory was acquired by the United States, delivered a lecture before the College Women's Club in the Waldorf-Astoria last night. The lecture marked the end of the entertainment season of the club, which was organized for the purpose of raising funds to aid young women in obtaining university educations.

The New York Times

Published: May 14, 1907

Copyright © The New York Times